Snapshot

Overview	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> The State of Kuwait ("Kuwait" or the "Sovereign") is a sovereign state on the coast of the Arabian Gulf, covering a total area of 17,818 square kilometers.
Economy	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Kuwait is a constitutional monarchy, headed by His Highness the Emir, Sheikh Sabah Al-Ahmad Al-Jaber Al-Sabah. Kuwait enjoys an open economy, dominated by the government sector. Its economy is primarily dependent on the oil industry, but has witnessed growing contribution from non-oil sectors.
Strategic Vision	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Kuwait has one of the lowest industry breakeven oil prices globally, and the lowest fiscal breakeven in the GCC, making it more resilient to low oil prices. It has accumulated substantial fiscal and external surpluses over the years, which serve as a buffer. Kuwait has launched a long-term policy vision under the banner of "Kuwait Vision 2035". The vision encompasses six strategic aims: increasing GDP growth, encouraging the private sector, supporting human and social development, promoting demographic policies, enhancing and improving the effectiveness of government administration, and consolidating the country's Islamic and Arab identity. Kuwait has set medium-term development strategies with a view to ultimately achieving this vision.

Recent Developments

GDP Growth	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Overall, economic growth is improving gradually, helped by an expected increase in oil production and a gradual pick-up in the non-oil sector. Fiscal and external buffers give Kuwait ample capacity to sustain spending plans. Non-oil growth is accelerating modestly, supported by capital spending and stronger consumer confidence. It is expected to be around 2.9% in 2018 and 2019.
Public Finance and Inflation	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Higher oil prices will help shrink the fiscal deficit and may see the government register a small headline deficit in 2018 and be in balance the following year. Inflation is projected to be low at 0.8% in 2018, on account of weaker global food prices and falling housing costs. Meanwhile, with less pressure from housing prices and healthier economic activity, inflation could be in the range of 2% in 2019.
Consumer Sector	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Consumer confidence is at a 4-year high, while jobs growth rebounded and income prospects improved. This was reflected in, NBK's consumer spending index, which expanded by 8.5% y/y at the end 1H18. However, actual growth in government spending on wages and salaries has moderated, as well as growth in household debt.
Credit Growth	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Credit growth rebounded on a strong pick-up in borrowing by key business sectors. However, non-bank financials continued to deleverage and household borrowing growth has eased. We expect credit growth of 3-6% in 2018 and 2019.
Real Estate Activity	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Despite delays in passing the budget (approved June 2018) and administrative hurdles, both of which slowed the pace of government project awards in 9M18, we are expecting awards to pick-up late in the year and through 2019. Lower property prices and a firmer outlook have catalyzed real estate activity, with sales up 26% y/y in the 12-months ending August 2018. Strength was particularly noted in the investment property sector (mainly apartments for rent).
